Whose Say-so Is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennet Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Grover Coe, of New York; Dr. Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa. and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion and corrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind, it is not a patent nor even a secret medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician, of large experience in the cure of woman's peculiar ailments, who frankly and confidingly takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for woman's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to preserve health and beauty is told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only; in cloth binding 31 stamps.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation.

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable store-house of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause of hair destruction is now known to be a germ or parasite that burrows into the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

The Eastern State Hospital.

Another sensation was sprung yesterday in the Eastern State Hospiial investigation at Williamsburg when Superintendent Foster's counsel arraigned Eugene H. Clowes, a witness. Col. Geo. Wayne Anderson accompanied Mr. Clowes as his counsel. Colonel Lawless challenged Mr. Clowes on five counts. First, that he attempted to perpetrate a fraud on the committee by the introduction of evidence which he knew to be misleading; second, that he wilfully gave false testimony before the committee; third, that while a member of the board he received a gratuity from a firm contracting for provisions for the hospital; fourth, that while a member of the board he voted for a resolution "whitewashing" a certain person; fifth, that he has been declared unfit by a legislative committee.

Colonel Anderson denied every charge made by Colonel Lawless. He said that he and Mr. Clowes would be delighted to be refused a hearing.

Colonel Lawless said he had raised his objections because he was in a position to know the character of the witness. Mr. Ould pointed out that it had been decided at the beginning of the investigation not to refer to the Clowes record openly.

Colonel Lawless referred not only to the record, but named the page and told what his charges were. He wanted to know what the status of the committee was in regard to the charges. He moved that Colonel Lawless' reference to the Clowes investigation be stricken from the record.

The chair ruled that Mr. Clowes was a proper witness until Colonel Lawless had proved his charges He also ruled that Colonel Lawless had exceeded the bounds of courtesy in his remarks. Colonel Lawless made a heated reply to Chairman Sadler's implied suggestion that he had misbehaved himself.

The chairman said that the best evidence that he had not misbehaved himself was that he was still before the committee. Colonel Anderson demanded that the proof of the stability of the charges be forthcoming immediately if the charges were allowed to go into the record. Colonel Lawless said he was perfectly willing to prove the charges immediately, by subpoenaing the members of the Clowes investigating committee to appear at once.

The committee went into executive session to decide whether the objection should be sustained. It was decided that the grounds of the objection to the competency of Mr. Clowes as a witness before the committee be overruled. This means that the charges will be retained on the record.

Death of Michael Davitt.

Michael Davitt died at midnight last night in Dublin. Michael Davitt was among the foremost Irish nationalists, and engaged in many a hard fight to obtain home rule for Ireland. He was born in Straide, county Mayo, in 1846. Michael's parents were poor peasants and were evicted from their farm when he was but six years old. While he was a boy, working in a cotton factory, at Haslingden, Lancashire, he lost his right arm in the machinery. From the age of 15 to 22 he was a newsboy, printer's devil, compositor and letter carrier. Davitt joined the Fenian brotherhood in 1865, when 19 years old, and was conspicuous as an agitator. He was detected transporting arms into Ireland and was sentenced to 15 years' penal servitude. After serving half the sentence he was released on a ticket-of-leave in 1875, and visited the United States on a lecturing tour. Obtaining funds to carry on a crusade against Irish landlordism he, on October 21, 1879, at his birthplace, organized the land league movement, which spread over Ireland. He again visited this country in 1880 to superintend the organization of an American branch of the land league, but hurried back to England on account of the prosecution of the land league executive. Davitt was arrested under the coercion act February 3, 1881, and reimprisoned to finish his old sentence. He was leniently treated during 15 months and again released on a ticket-of-leave. He revisited America to advocate the revival of the land league, and on his return to Ireland organized the national league. In 1883 he was imprisoned for a seditious speech. In 1882, while in prison, Davitt was elected a member of Parliament for Meath, but was disqualified on the grounds of his unexpired ticket-of-leave. In 1892 he was elected from North Meath, but was unseated on special petition. Davitt was returned from North East Cork in 1893, but shortly afterward was compelled to vacate through bankruptcy. In 1895 he was returned, opposed, from East Kerry and South Mayo, but resigned in 1899. In 1889 Davitt was implicated in the "Parnellism and Crime" prosecution instigated by the London Times, and conducted his own defense in an effective speech which received the commendation of the president judge. He visited the United States several times in recent years, chiefly to collect funds to carry on the work of the United Irish league.

THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 31, 1906.

So strong is the demand for full information respecting conditions in the meat packing industry, so conflicting the reports regarding them, so widespread and profound the horror which a mere intimation of the charges has produced, and so general the suspicion with which all meat products are now regarded, that the President may be forced to make public the report of Labor Commissioner Neill. From the mere intimation that all is not as it should be in the packing-houses, the conclusion has been reached in one bound that conditions are worse than any one is willing to admit. From the acknowledged necessity for rigid government inspection to prevent the packers from selling diseased and putrid meats to the public the inference is drawn that but little wholesome meat is sold. No revelations that can be made by the Commissioner of Labor are likely to be half as revolting as the suspected details of his discoveries or the imagined evils existing throughout the whole meat-packing industry. It is, therefore, becoming apparent that not only is a rigid inspection by the government absolutely necessary to restore any measure of confidence in this great element of the country's food supply, but the publication of all known facts respecting packinghouse methods may become necessary in order that the public may learn that the evils are not so great as now believed. Neither the government nor the people owe the meat trust anything and a full exposure of its nefarious methods should be made public.

THE ADVICE given to the colored race at Hampton yesterday by President Roosevelt is the most salutary since the days of Abraham Lincoln, and a certain percentage of colored people are living upon the lines marked out by the President. It would be well if the mass would take heed and do likewise. All the laws enacted by the white race for the amelioration of the negro as well as the various plans of philanthropists are merely avenues into which the colored race must pass in order to evolve into citizens who will merit respect. Idleness and dreams coupled with a defective education will accomplish nothing. The first act of colored people is to find honest employment, and to avoid places where their morals are sure to suffer. President Roosevelt, among other things, advised his colored hearers to go back to the farms. While there is employment for thousands in the rural districts, many can also secure work in other places. By working for their living they will surely merit the respect of white people among whom they live. But, unfortunately, many hang around cities and towns and spend the fruits of their labor in saloons and brothels, while others not addicted to the grosser habits live in idleness and follow ignis fatuii in the shape of movements they imagine tend to advance their race. Nothing will effectually advance any class but industry, and this lesson the negro must learn.

AT A meeting of the Society for the Prevention of Vice, held at the residence of Dr. Charles E. Parkhurst, in New York, on Monday night, it was resolved to begin immediately a thorough and far-reaching attack upon the "wide open" conditions which are known to exist throughout New York city. Every gambling house and evil resort in Manhattan against which evidence can be obtained will be proceeded against. The crusade will take in primarily all of the Borough of Manhattan, and secondarily, as much of the Borough of Brooklyn as can be adequately dealt with. One of the participators in the meeting says: "Within a week or so we will be in a position to close most of the gambling houses and evil resorts in the city." The society may temporarily close many such places, but the history of similar crusades shows that certain evils will ever and anon spring up in a city of the proportions of New York.

KING ALFONSO and Princess Ena were today united in matrimony in a manner befitting royalty. The young couple are now man and wife—no longer twain but one. The Spanish capital has on its holiday robes, and the spirit of the occasion animates all classes. The people of Spain are rejoicing with the couple, now at the threshold of life, and all wish them bon voyage. The young King has at times manifested a thoughtless vein, natural in most young men, especially those born to rule and with the traditional silver spoon in their mouth. He has yet much to learn concerning the true mission of life, and with a loving and faithful consort whose affections we prefer to believe he will reciprocate, he will escape many of the pitfalls incident to path of those whose intimates are solely of the masculine gender, and who seek happiness outside the domestic circle.

A COTEMPORARY says every day it costs more to die and be buried decently. Recently all the undertakers in New York were informed by circular letter that the price off coffins will be raised 25 per cent. next Monday. So the truly furgal must die in a hurry. The circular letter came from the big wholesale casket makers, who strongly deny that they form a trust or that they do any underground work in combination. Nevertheless, as the price will be raised so soon, the undertakers will have little chance to stock up with coffins. The price of coffins to the undertakers has gone up 50 per cent. in six months, but judging from the average charge for a funeral they will not lose money. The New York City Undertakers' Association will meet June 5 next to consider the subject of independent factories.

EIGHT years ago the U. S. soldiers in the Spanish war raised a howl about the tainted beef that was being served them, but their complaint was not a marker to the indignation now aroused throughout the country against the beef trust concerning the food supplies it is furnishing the people, who, however, seem to have no redress.

From Washington.

Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.)

Washington, May 31.

Speaker Cannon, whose obstinacy in legislative matters has developed to a wonderful degree, has taken a stand against the educational qualification required by the immigration bill, and declares that it must come out, or the House will not be allowed to pass the measure. This provision has been advocated by every labor organization in the United States. It stipulates that immigrants shall be required to read a section of the Constitution in some language in order to gain admittance to the country. It was passed by the Senate without objection.

The State Department has received additional dispatches from United States Minister Combs in Guatamala with reference to the general revolution in that country. The information conveyed by Mr. Combs is rather meagre, but he says that the country, at present, is comparatively quiet. Revolutionists are massing in force along the Mexican frontier and in Salvador with a view to making a general movement against the Guatamalan government. Another dispatch received by the State Department tells of the departure from some port in Mexico of a filibustering expedition directed against Guatamala and in aid of the revolutionists. The Department of State is most reticent with regard to its advices from Guatamala, Assistant Secretary Bacon declining this morning to make public the detailed information received by him.

Representative Hepburn, ranking member of the House conferrees on the railroad rate bill, said today: "We are making good progress. We devoted two hours to the subject today. No serious differences have arisen. I expect a full agreement by Monday or Tuesday of next week."

After a three hours' conference this morning, the announcement was made by the Interstate Commerce Commission that it will hold a session in Washington tomorrow to take further testimony in the coal investigation, and will continue its sessions in Philadelphia next week, beginning Tuesday. While no statement about the witnesses who are to be summoned to the hearing is made, it is understood Baltimore and Ohio officials will be called tomorrow to explain the contract, now in the hands of the commission, by which the railroad transferred its holdings in the Consolidated Coal Company, of West Virginia, to the Watson syndicate, of Baltimore. Some Pennsylvania officials, it is hinted, may be present. During the conference today John B. Thayer, fourth vice-president of the Pennsylvania, call at the office of the commission and had a consultation with Chairman Knapp. He did not meet the other members of the commission, nor Special Counsel Glasgow and Whitney. Mr. Thayer said he was on his way to Richmond, and merely stopped in Washington to have explained to him the attitude of the commission in regard to a recent decision on the U. S. Supreme Court. He said he did not mention the investigations of the Pennsylvania.

E. H. Stacable, collector of customs in Honolulu, had a conference today with Commissioner-General Sargent, of the Bureau of Immigration, in regard to the best means of securing an increased European immigration to the Hawaiian islands. Mr. Stacable has been appointed the representative of the territorial government of the islands to visit Europe with a view of promoting immigration to the islands. He will shortly leave Washington for Europe.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Miss Ethel and Master Quentin, and Mrs. Roosevelt's sister, Miss Carow, returned to Washington this morning at 10 o'clock on board the Mayflower. The run from Hampton where the President yesterday afternoon delivered an address to the students was made without incident.

The body of Daniel Shannon was found in the river at the foot of 14th street about 8 o'clock this morning. Shannon who is 65 years old, lived at 916 H street, northwest. He was a clerk in the war department. When the body was found his clothes contained a watch and chain and some money. The body was prevented from sinking by the opening of his shirt which acted as a sort of a sail. It is not known whether his death was accidental or otherwise.

Acting Secretary of the Treasury Keep today sent to the subtreasurer at New York a telegram reading substantially as follows: "Notify gold import banks that for the time being special deposits to facilitate gold imports will be discontinued, by direction of the Secretary." Mr. Keep says that this action is taken because, in view of Secretary Shaw, the need of making such deposits no longer exists.

According to a dispatch from Gen. Greely, at San Francisco, there will be a gradual withdrawal of federal troops from that city, beginning today, the local authorities having agreed to this plan. The destitutes now number 59,432. San Francisco.

"The packers are anxious for inspection. They have put no obstacle in its way." This statement was made this afternoon by Representative Wadsworth, of New York, chairman of the House committee on agriculture. "They do not consider the Beveridge amendment satisfactory," he added. "Neither does anybody else. But those in charge of it are now at work on it and a satisfactory agreement will be reached."

A large portion of today at the trial of ex-State Senator Green was occupied in the identification by Arthur H. Whitlark, formerly a clerk in the office of George W. Beavers, former superintendent of salaries and allowances of the Postoffice Department, of certain letters initialed by Beavers and bearing upon the purchase of the cancelling machines in which Green was interested. It was the purpose of District Attorney Baker to show that Beavers had a personal interest in the purchase of the machines by the department.

The bill for a canal between Puget Sound and Lake Washington, today received a favorable report from the Senate commerce committee. James A. Moore, who makes the application to build the canal, is required to build and maintain it for three years, and then turn it over to the United States.

Guthrie will remain the capital of the State of Oklahoma for the next nine years, that is until 1915, if the decision of the conference committee on the statehood bill is approved by the Senate and House. A final agreement on this point was reached by the conferees at their meeting this morning. No progress was made in the contention regarding statehood for Arizona and New Mexico.

Fifty-ninth Congress.

Washington, May 31.

SENATE.

Senator Smoot entered the Senate today just as great boxes of petitions asking for his expulsion were being presented. He smiled broadly. There were 40,000 signatures from New York, 11,000 from Missouri, and several boxes from Illinois, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Tennessee, South Carolina, Vermont, Iowa, Texas and South Dakota.

The omnibus light and fog signal station bill carrying an aggregate of nearly two million dollars, was passed.

The Senate passed an "anti-immunity" bill, so as to prevent further defeats in the courts as the government met in the beef trust prosecution in Chicago.

It provides that under investigations of the bureau of corporations and under proceedings of the Interstate Commerce Commission, "immunity shall extend only to a natural person, who, in obedience to a subpoena, gives testimony under oath or produces evidence documentary or otherwise, under oath." In explaining its need, Mr. Knox said: "The whole purpose of this act is to define the rights of witnesses in these cases as we thought it was, and to say it as the statute in question said it, but to say it more clearly and emphatically."

HOUSE.

Mr. Garner, of Texas, introduced a resolution instructing the Secretary of Commerce and Labor to investigate the causes of the differences of prices of articles of steel or iron manufactured at home and abroad and to learn whether they are the result of a combination or conspiracy; also whether the prices in the United States have been controlled by the steel trust, and, if so, to investigate the organization, capitalization, profits, conduct and management of this trust.

A bill providing for federal inspection of all meats offered for interstate or foreign commerce was introduced by Mr. Crumpacker, who is of the opinion that the government has no power to regulate State traffic in meats, and that the only way the question can be handled is to prohibit interstate traffic in meats which do not meet with the requirements of the government. Mr. Crumpacker believes the federal government should pay the cost of inspection.

Democratic floor leader Williams today in the House continued his statehood filibuster. It took two roll-calls, consuming an hour, to send some minor bills to conference.

Another roll-call, consuming thirty minutes, was had before the diplomatic appropriation bill was given further consideration in committee of the whole.

The House this afternoon passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill and then the democrats inaugurated a filibuster against a rule sending the postoffice appropriation bill to a conference, with the Senate.

Because Rev. John A. Burnett, of Monmouth, Ill., smokes tobacco, the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church at Richmond, Ind., yesterday, by a decisive vote, rejected the resolution of the committee on nominations that Rev. Mrs. Porter Gilbert, a woman of wealth and refinement and connected with one of Kentucky's oldest families, cut her throat from ear to ear at her residence on College avenue. Rev. Dr. Tucker Elected Bishop.

The Rev. Beverly Dandridge Tucker, of St. Paul's Church, Norfolk, was last night, a few minutes before 12 o'clock, elected bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal Diocese of Southern Virginia by the diocesan council, in session in Portsmouth. Dr. Tucker's election resulted on the fifth ballot, he receiving 43 clerical and 38 lay votes to 23 clerical and 24 lay for Dr. C. B. Bryan, his only opponent on the ballot.

Others voted for previously were Rev. Dr. W. H. Milton, Rev. Dr. Berryman Greene and Rev. Dr. James Morris.

Dr. Tucker, it is thought, will accept the office, but it will necessitate his removal from Norfolk as bishop of the diocese, as Rt. Rev. A. M. Randolph resides there. Dr. Tucker has been rector of St. Paul's for twenty-five years, and he has long been one of the most prominent clergymen in the State. Dr. Tucker is a native of Richmond. He entered the service of the Confederate army in Company G, Third Battalion, local defense, at the time of the Dahlgren raid, served with that command until the winter of 1864-5, and was then transferred to the Otey Battery, Thirteenth Virginia Artillery. John Augustine Washington, of Mount Vernon, who was aide-de-camp of Gen. Robert E. Lee, and was killed at Rich Mountain.

Invite Investigation.

Instead of opposing government inspection and sanitary regulation of meat-packing plants, as contemplated by the Beveridge bill, Chicago meat packers declare that they will welcome such legislation, although it is contended that the larger houses are now sanitary. Official statements were made yesterday by Armour & Co., Nelson Morris & Co., Swift & Co., and the National Packing Company, declaring that these four concerns were in favor of any inspection or regulation that would add improvement to the meatpacking industry.

Warnings that a plot aimed against his life had been formed at the instigation of the packers of Chicago, made desperate by his efforts to bring about the publication of the report of Commissioners Neill and Reynolds upon the condition in the slaughter-houses in Packingtown, were received in New York yesterday by Upton Sinclair. The letters came from persons whose friendship Sinclair won while he was investigating conditions in the packinghouses which he afterwards incorporated in his book, "The Jungle." According to his informants, his foes, realising the effect upon their interests which would inevitably follow the printing of the Neill-Reynolds report, have determined to intimidate Sinclair into becoming silent, or, failing this, to kill him. "These threats do not alarm me," said Sinclair at the Everett House yesterday. "I shall keep to the course I have outlined."

Today's Telegraphic News

Marriage of King Alfonso and Princess Ena.

Madrid, May 31.—King Alfonso, of Spain, and Princess Ena, of Battenberg, niece of King Edward, of England, were married at noon today in the little church of San Geronimo in the presence of a distinguished company of about one thousand persons, including special ambassadors from the chief countries of the world. The ceremony was performed by Cardinal Sancha, Catholic primate of Spain, assisted by a number of high prelates, and was fully choral.

More interest was taken in today's ceremony than in any other event that has happened in Spain in many years. The city was more crowded than at the time of King Alfonso's coronation four years ago, and the enthusiasm of the people was much greater. Several thousand English people came to Madrid for the wedding, and many American tourists deviated from the ordinary beaten track of continental travel to be present at the festivities. Spaniards say they have never before seen so many Americans in Madrid.

Every district in Spain sent delegations to the capital, and the police estimate there are over 150,000 visitors in the city.

Madrid was profusely decorated and all traffic was stopped, and only those with special permits were allowed in the roadway.

At the appointed hour Princess Ena left the palace and entered a magnificent mother of pearl state carriage followed by Princess Henry of Battenberg and by the Queen mother of Spain, who took the other seats in the vehicle. Drawn by six horses and escorted by a cavalcade of troopers, and high court officials and followed by other carriages containing the ladies of Ena's suit, the procession started for the Church of San Geronimo. At the same time King Alfonso drove out of the royal palace, also escorted by high officials and grandees.

The two processions met a short distance outside the palace and continued together to the church which is situated about two miles from the royal palace on the other side of the city.

The church was magnificient decorated. The beautifully sculptured porch was hung with rich gobelin tapestries from the Spanish royal collection. The front of the edifice was decorated with Spanish and British flags and with wreaths entwined with the two national colors.

The interior was adorned with red velvet and dammask hangings embroidered with gold crowns. Red banners, showing the Spanish arms, hung from the pillars. Magnificent crystal chandeliers threw a brilliant light on the scene. The altar was a mass of flowers, red roses and carnations predominating.

To the right of the altar a royal dais, covered with red velvet embroidered with gold, was erected. On it were two large gilded arm chairs for the use of Alfonso and Ena. The people in the church were for the most part Spanish, but there was a noticeable number of Englishmen and a number of Americans were also present. The women wore beautiful decolette gowns, without hats. White and black were the predominant colors. The women wore all their jewels and had splendid tiaras on their heads. The jewels of the wives of the Spanish grandees were particularly beautiful and rivalled those of members of the royal families. The men wore court costumes, and carried small swords.

The royal cortege on arriving at the church was received at the entrance by Cardinal Sancha, and other members of the officiating clergy, and members of the special embassies. Two tribunes, decorated with red tapestry, were erected on each side of the entrance. One of these the clergy used and the special ambassadors sat on the other. The wedding procession was finally formed and led by the prelates it entered the auditorium and marched slowly up the main aisle to the alter. Alfonso wore the uniform of a Captain-General in the Spanish army, and carried his sword by his side. He was attended by his brother-in-law, the Prince of Asturias.

Princess Ena obviously felt the ordeal through which she was passing, for she was pale and seemed to realize the responsibility she was assuming on becoming Queen of a people entirely new to her. She wore a white duchess satin gown made in princess style. The bodice was trimmed with white d'Alencon lace and was embroidered with intertwined wreaths of silver roses and orange blossoms, bordered with fleurs-de-lis. From the shoulders of the sleeve fell embroidered lines of silver orange blossoms uniting at the elbow. She had on a mantle of white satin ornamented in the same way as the dress. The gown was made with a long court train of satin, the edges being embroidered with silver fleurs-de-lis.

The Queen mother of Spain acted as the bride's matron of honor and a number of young girls, the daughters of Spanish grandees, were maids of honor.

When the royal couple reached the altar, they stood side by side for a few moments while the clergy took their places and the other people in the procession were shown their seats.

Then the services began. Cardinal Sancha stood directly in front of the bride and groom, flanked by Monsignor Rinaldi, the Papal Muncio of Spain, and Monsigner Locatelli, the dometi prelate, who personally represented the Pope. A number of bishops were grouped in the backgrounds. The service was short, and according to the formula of the Catholic Church, except that at the conclusion Alfonso carried out the curious custom of handing to his bride thirteen pieces of gold, called the "arras."

The gold pieces are symbolical of the Lord and his twelve disciples, and as he placed them in Ena's hand, the King said: "My wife, take these arras, which I present to you in proof of marriage."

The cardinal then addressed a short sermon to the bride and groom charging them to remain faithful and loving to each other, and to continue throughout their married life true children of the Catholic Church.

Alfonso and Ena then left the church and entered the cloisters, accompanied by the royal witnesses, and signed the register. They soon returned when the grand Te Deum was sung. A full orchestra played the music and the singers had positions on a temporary altar from which they were visible all over the church. Alfonso and Ena remained standing while the hymn was sung.

They then walked down the aisle while the orchestra played a triumphal wedding march, composed for the occasion by Senor Detern, the greatest living Spanish musician. The members of the royal family, the grandees and the court officials followed them.

The wedding procession to escort the King and his new Queen back to the palace, then formed outside the church. This was the most gorgeous spectacle of the day and the event for which the people of Madrid had been waiting since early morning.

The procession was a mile and a half long and required an hour to pass a given point.

The King and Queen were plainly visible to the people through the open windows and they were kept busy bowing continually to the people. Alfonso repeatedly trust his head through the window smiling and waving his hand.

The procession broke up in front of the palace, the carriages of the grandees drawing out of the line and proceeding to the home of the owners. There was no formal reception, but the specially invited guests entered the palace and sat down to a wedding breakfast. The wedding cake was cut by Queen Ena. It was a splendid specimen of the confectioner's art, made in four tiers, six feet high, and weighing 300 pounds. It was made in thirty sections and her majesty cut through the sectional division so that there was no trouble in dividing the cake.

Alfonso and Ena will remain in Madrid until the end of next week, to participate in the elaborate series of fetes which have been organized in their honor. On June 8 they will start on their honeymoon trip, visiting the palace of La Granja near Segovia. They will remain there for a fortnight and will then go to San Sebastin for the summer.

Bomb Thrown at Alfonso.

A bomb was thrown at King Alfonso and Queen Ena this afternoon. Both escaped.

The bomb was thrown from a balcony extending out of Mayor street, as the wedding procession was passing. It exploded in front of one of the royal carriages, and two of the eight horses which were drawing the vehicle were killed.

An equerry was wounded and a child in the crowd was killed.

King Alfonso and Queen Ena behaved with the greatest coolness. As soon as order had been restored out of the confusion which reigned following the throwing of the bomb, they continued their drive towards the palace.

A fourteen year old boy has been arrested in connection with the bomb throwing.

Addicks Still in the Ring.

Dover, Del., May 31.—The legislature of Delaware met today in extraordinary session, called by the republican Governor Preston Lea, last Monday. Governor Lea's call states that the legislature is to consider a constitutional amendment of the franchise tax law and the election of a United States Senator. The democratic members of the legislature in caucus last night declared the extra session a fraud perpetrated upon the people of Delaware by an unscrupulous majority to garner the benefit of a corrupt victory at the last general election. They resolved that the Senatorial election being the sole cause of the session, they would vote to adjourn from day to day and obstruct the election rather than be passive parties to what they charge is a corrupt attempt to steal a national toga.

This extra session marks the prolongation of ten years' internecine war in Delaware republican politics. Regular republicans have fought union republicans during that period with the bitter and implacable ferocity that accompanies strife between brethren.

Delawareans say that John Edward Addicks, the "Gas" Addicks of the Bay State Gas Company, is the cause of the war, his leadership of the union republicans in furtherance of a consuming ambition to sit in the Senate having originated and perpetuated the war.

Every Delaware republican of prominence is in Dover today and they pretend to believe that the party is in harmony for the first time in years, and the election of a United States Senator is certain. As a matter of present fact the situation today is more complicated now than ever.

A Senator may be elected, but his election will be accomplished by intrigue and conspiracy of the intricate nature for which Delaware is notorious. Plain money is not the only argument being used. Noteworthy republicans in their analysis of present conditions claim that Addicks is eliminated. Addicks, however, is in Dover, apparently serene and undoubtedly determined. This is Addicks's seventh pitched battle in the senatorial field. He fought his first campaign of civil strife in 1895.

Addicks today is broken in fortune, but therein he has gained some strength. Common report says that Addicks has invested a half million dollars in Delaware politics. Some of those who have received a part of his expenditure and failed to deliver the goods now consider Addicks an abused man, and in a spirit of fair play which may survive in the hardest political heart, feel that he is entitled to the position hitherto withheld.

The chief strength of Addicks, however, lies in his own unquenchable desire for revenge against Senator Frank Allee, his former henchman, whom Addicks elected as the union republican Senator in 1905. The term of Senator Ball, the regular republican elected on the compromise agreement with Allee, has expired, and this vacancy is to be filled. Allee has repudiated Addicks. Judas Iscariot is the weakest epithet Addicks has since assigned to Allee. To rob Allee of the power he has usurped Addicks will make a fight which, if it is to be his last in Delaware, will be his bitterest.

While Addicks has denounced Allee as a traitor plain citizens have said he was at least an ingrate. It is reported that Allee knew nothing of the call for this session until it was out.

Addicks has a delicate chance of yet being Senator. He claims he will be elected. Allee and other republicans are for Col. Henry A. Dupont, the powder man.

In the organization of the State Senate and House, which convened at noon, today, the democrats, in accordance with their programme refused to vote on officers and resolutions.

Blaine Divorce Suit.

Sioux Falls, S. D., May 31.—Mrs. James G. Blaine, jr., with the consent of her attorney, Peter J Rogde, granted an interview yesterday afternoon, in the course of which she let it be known that she would not demand any alimony of her husband in her divorce suit, which is expected to be filed in six months, and that she did not expect her husband to offer any resistance to her petition. She also branded as false the report that she would attempt to have the divorce which her husband's first wife obtained here in 1892 set aside because of the recent decision of the Supreme Court.

Douma Stirred.

St. Petersburg, May 31.—The members of the Douma are deeply stirred in consequence of the death sentence having been passed on more political offenders at Riga. Many of the deputies held a meeting and demanded that the Douma should not hold further sessions until Premier Goremykin shall resign from his office. A number of prominent social democrats hastily sent for the leader, M. Milinkoff, who, in a long speech, advocated patience. The meeting decided to continue the Douma sittings until the abolition of capital punishment.

New York Stock Market.

New York, May 31, 11 a. m.—The market showed almost uniform improvement during the first hour. The list generally made advances ranging from ¼ to order four points. There have been realizing sales in the last few minutes, but the reaction, outside of Illinois Central was unimportant. Some importance was attached in the money crowd to the open offers of large amounts of call money at four per cent.

Denatured Alcohol.

Denaturized alcohol is alcohol mixed with a sufficient quantity of methyl or wood alcohol or other materials or mixtures to destroy its use as a beverage or basis for drinks or medicinal purposes. It can be made from any grain, the refuse of sugar-beet factories potatoes, fruits, cane and cassava. Grain alcohol now pays an internal revenue tax of $2.07 a gallon. Denaturized alcohol will pay no tax. Its advocates expect that it can be manufactured and sold as low as $4 a ton. One bushel of corn, costing not less than 40 cents, will make five gallons of alcohol. Illuminating oil costs from 14 to 16 cents a gallon, and denaturized alcohol can be manufactured to sell at from 8 to 10 cents a gallon.

The advocates of denaturized alcohol expect that it will revolutionize heating, lightning and power generation. They expect it will give the farmers a new and better market for grain, sugar beets, cane and other products from which alcohol can be made. They also expect it to supplant gasoline and naptha, in generating power for automobiles, launches and small engines; supplant kerosene as an illuminant, because it does not vitiate the air, and there is less danger of explosions; cheapen naphtha, gasoline and illuminating oils; cheapen plants, varnishes, and perfumery; increase the manufacture and sale of alcohol lamps and chafing dishes and cheapen the cost of alcohol used in the arts.

Bureaucracy Capricious.

Despite the interpellation adopted by the lower house of parliament Tuesday regarding the provocative Black Hundred telegrams to the Czar, printed in the Officials Messenger of St Petersburg, that paper yesterday morning again published several columns against extending the amnesty to "traitors," but asking for the pardon of those who participated in the anti-Jewish outrages and generally protesting that the lower house of parliament does not represent the real voice of the Russian people. This, taken in connection with the execution of the eight revolutionists at Riga while the interpellation on the subject was pending, is interpreted as being a studied effort on the part of the government to ignore the demands of parliament. The manner in which the policy of the government seems to shift from day to day could not be better illustrated than by the sudden decision to prosecute the leaders of the recent meeting of social revolutionists, at which a revolutionary resolution was adopted. For a forenight previous the organs of the social revolutionists had been allowed to print reports of meetings and seemed to be encouraged to do so until it looked as if the government was deliberately provoking a disturbance, while now the publication of these reports has been stopped and the campaign against the revolutionists has recommenced.

In the Superior Court at Winston-Salem, N. C., yesterday J E. Witbeck, Sam Kobre and William Plean, charged with the murder and robbery of Henry Kobre, were among the witnesses examined. Their deportment on the witness stand was commendable and made a fine impression upon the large number of people who attended the trial. The opinion was freely expressed that the defendants would be acquitted and predictions were made that Judge Peebles, after hearing all of the evidence, would not permit the case to go to the jury A dispatch received here today states that Mr Witbeck was this morning completely exonerated of all connection with the death of Kobre and was discharged from custody. This is nothing more than was expected by Mr. Witbeck's many friends in this city, who from the beginning have believed him to be entirely innocent.

THE PRESIDENT'S ADVICE TO THE NEGROES.

A notable address was delivered to the colored students of Hampton Institute yesterday evening by President Roosevelt. He dwelt particularly on the necessity for the development of character, not only in the negro, but in the white man as well, maintaining that education would fit neither for citizenship unless accompanying it there was the right type of family life in the home. He urged the boys to take to industrial work and the farm. Speaking directly to the negro students, he said:

"Now, the first thing upon which I wish to lay emphasis is that a school such as this, which strives to raise the colored men and the colored women, to make them better men and better women, better citizens, is pre-eminently in the interests of the white man. There is nothing that can be done better for the white man who is to live side by side with the colored man than to train that colored man up to be a good citizen. The good man, who is a white man, by his presence is a benefit to every colored man in the community, and the safety of the white man is in having the colored man grow to be a good and decent man.

"From the standpoint of the white man the safest and best thing that can happen is to have the colored people around him become thrifty, industrious, home-makers and home-keepers, for you never yet had any formidable quantity of criminals from a people or locality where the average type was the home-maker and the homekeeper.

"From the standpoint of the colored man, the only real way to help him is to help himself. In the long run in this world no human being can be carried. What this institution does is to train young men and women to walk by themselves. The colored man who helps his race most is he who helps teach the members of his race how to conduct themselves with self-respect. No race, no nationality ever raises itself by the exhibition of genius in a few women; what counts is character—the character of the average man and the average woman.

"You have sent out from Hampton Institute in all something like six thousand graduates, and if I have remembered rightly, there are but two of whom you have record as criminals, and that fact is an all-sufficient answer to the blind people who say that no good will come from educating the negro. So far is that from the truth that it may be said that the real hope for the negro, as well as for the white man, is in education, if only we understand the meaning of education in its proper sense.

"It is often said that the true place for the negro is in industrial work. It is. That is the true place for the average negro, and it is the true place for the average man, and we will not get our civilization upon a proper basis until we root out of the mind of the average man and the average girl, of whatever color, the belief that to become a poor clerk is a better thing than being a first-class handworker, a first-class mechanic or a first-class agricultural laborer. The wrong twist that has been given to our education in the past has been largely responsible for the very healthy development of the city at the expense of the country.

"Never in the past has any nation been permanently great when the city population has been enormous in size as compared with the country population, for the country folk, the people of the farms, can serve certain qualities which those who dwell in the large cities tend to lose. If there is one thing I would like especially to impress upon you it is to advise you to take up the work on the farms with the intention of owning them. In doing that you will be doing only what the best, the most intelligent and most advanced white people are more and more growing to do.

"The growth of agricultural colleges and their development has been one of the significant features of education for the white race in most all of the States of this Union, because more and more have the people grown to realize that the child of the farmer must be developed scientifically, his abilities be given full play as they can only be given through the aid of education and science. So that on the one hand, the profession itself shall become more and more attractive to men of brains and intelligence, and so that, on the other hand, it shall be recognized more and more as being the one profession, the failure to develop which in this country would mean that the development of all the rest of the professions would count for but little.

"Our whole civilization is going to tend more and more toward recognizing the capital part played by the manual worker, the vital part played by the man who actually works with his hands, whether in the workshop or on the farm. More and more things are going to shape themselves so that he shall have the fullest recognition."

Automobile Accident.

Reuben J. Taylor, superintendent of the Continental Fire Insurance Company, of New York, lies in a hospital at the point of death as the result of an automobile accident yesterday afternoon. Accompanied by his wife, Mr. Taylor started yesterday afternoon to take a short ride in his large car. Being an enthusiast, he dispensed with a chauffeur and drove the machine himself. They went through Central Park and then up to Kings Bridge. At Two Hundred and Thirty-second street and Riverdale avenue, just off the main thoroughfare, there is a steep hill with a winding narrow road to the top. Mr. Taylor, who is 68 years old, is an expert chauffeur. He started to drive the heavy auto up the hill. It had reached about half way when something went wrong and it suddenly stopped. Mr. Taylor made several efforts to go ahead, but the machine would move scarcely a foot. Applying a reverse speed, the driver sent the machine slowly backward. Once the car started going he could not stop it, and, with the owner tugging frantically at the lever, the big auto gathered momentum in its downward plunge. Mrs. Taylor retained her presence of mind and tried to aid her husband. The machine, after going several yards, left the road and started through a field, crushing the bushes that skirted the road. By the time the auto reached the bottom of the hill it was going at a fast clip. A wood fence served to check its speed a little, but, snapping the rails, the car dashed across the narrow road and hovered a fraction of a second on the top of the 35-foot embankment. In that time Mrs. Taylor realized her danger and jumped. She landed safe, and when she looked for her husband he was at the bottom of the embankment with the car on top of him. It had turned completely over, throwing him out and then landing on him.

Loved Brother's Wife.

Details have just reached Live Oak, Fla., of a murder at Obrine, Suwannee county, which occurred Tuesday morning at 2 o'clock Bart McCall became infatuated with the wife of his brother, Ed McCall. In the night he visited his brother's home and made noises to arouse his victim. Ed McCall went to a window previously opened by Bart, and was then shot by Bart with a shotgun, dying almost instantly. Officers arrested Bart, who broke down and confessed all, and was brought to Live Oak and jailed. Mrs. Ed McCall had repelled the advances made by her brother-in law.

YES,

We Probably Have It.

A good many people make the mistake of going to Washington to get something they could buy at home, do not look for it here, just jump to the conclusion that such things are not to be had in Alexandria.

We would like to state to those contemplating purchasing a fine watch, or diamond, or other fine piece of jewelry, clock, silverware, cut glass, etc., that we have a large and complete stock of the above mentioned goods and which we offer at a lower price than is asked for the same goods in Washington.

THURSDAY EVENING, MAY 31, 1906.

We'll Enter In Some Day.

Let not the shower's of anguish fall!
A living God rules over all,
To comfort those who mourn.

Some day—sometime—'twill not be long—
We'll enter with death's mystic throng
God's fathomless Unknown—

Yea—enter a vast company—
When we have cross'd the silent sea
Beyond this vale of tears.

We'll gather on Life's river-banks,
Where we shall find those countless ranks
Death-garner'd—aye, for years!

Shall we not 'mid this gath'ring meet
Our missing ones, and gladly greet
Them as in days of yore?

Methinks, within those jasper walls,
Where comes no blight—no shadow falls—
We'll join them evermore:

The serpent's trail is swept away;
Their earth-night changed to perfect day;
With our belov'd 'tis well.

Can we not say, "God's will be done,"
If they've rest, a quiet guerdon won,
And with Him safely dwell?

God "giveth His beloved sleep:"
His angels o'er them vigils keep—
They slumber on His breast.

There let them 'bide—our lov'd and lost—
Till we too have the Jordan cross'd,
And with them ever rest!

Waiting for His Diamond.

Like Shylock, with his judgment of a pound of flesh, Tinley L. Coombs, of Omaha, has been placed in the dilemma of not being able to claim his property awarded by the court except at the risk of murder. In this instance the pound of flesh is a $300 diamond in the stomach of a self-confessed shoplifter.

Mae Thomas swallowed the diamond Saturday in the store of the T. L. Coombs Co., jewelers. She appeared to be a woman of wealth and the clerk was careless. From a tray of diamonds the woman removed the handsomest stone and concealed it in her mouth. An instant later detectives, who were following her from a store where a similar theft had been attempted, arrested her. To avoid being found with the diamond she swallowed it.

Fear of appendicitis wrung from the woman a confession, which the police confirmed by taking an X-ray photograph. The negative shows the diamond plainly.

"The diamond is yours," said the police judge to the jeweler. "Take it, but if you resort to a surgical operation against the prisoner's will and she dies, you can be held for murder."

The surgeons say the diamond can be recovered without an operation. So terrified is the woman at the prospect of undergoing the surgeon's knife that she remains awake nights, fearing that while she sleeps the jailors might chloroform her for the operation.

"I will die before I will let them operate on me," she said yesterday evening.

And so the jeweler is waiting to recover his $300 diamond when the woman develops a case of appendicitis. This the physicians think is likely.
